Services to companies

Professional Services are the "innovation agents" in a country, and contribute especially to the development of new technologies and innovation in industry and the environment, financial services, reorganising the state, communications, and quality systems. Within this sector we can see many different services that concentrate mainly on research and development, ICT, communications, and marketing.

Services to people

In our Region, we can see a constant growth in quality and quantity terms of social situations, especially social cooperatives (in addition to associations, voluntary organisations, and trusts), which mainly work in providing help for people, the elderly, and children. This also applies to culture and training, running museums, open spaces, and rehabilitating the less fortunate than ourselves (prisoners, former prisoners, former drug addicts, immigrants, young people in danger, and those with physical and mental disabilities).
